A GROUP OF LONGREACH NATIVES OFF TO THE FRONT.
—T. Tighe photo.

A SNAPSHOT FROM "HOME."

This group has special interest for Queenslanders. It was taken at the Australian training camp at Weymouth, England, which is under the command of Colonel Spencer Browne, C.B., formerly of the Brisbane Newspaper Company's staff. Those in the group are:—

Back row: Colonel R. Spencer Browne, Mr. Thomas Hardy, (the well-known novelist), Mr. Penton, and Major H. Tubmann (formerly rector of St. Colomb's Church of England at Clayfield).

Ladies: Matron Monte Video, Mrs. Thomas Hardy, Mrs Spencer Browne, and Miss Dugdale (Mrs. Thomas Hardy's sister).

In front: Major Norris.

A WESTERN COLLAPSE.

This great galvanised iron tank, used as a reservoir for storing water pumped by windmill from a sub-artesian bore on Mr. E. J. O'Mara's Cleeve property, near Longreach, recently collapsed suddenly. The force of the released water carried great logs before it, and one piece of iron weighing 130lb. was swept down to the creek near by.

"MOVING HOUSE" AT CLERMONT.

As the result of the recent disastrous flood at Clermont the Grand Hotel, which was the refuge of many of the drowned-out residents, has been moved to a new site on higher ground about two miles from its old position. During the removal "business as usual" was carried on, and the only damage sustained by the building was a broken pane of glass and one 3 x 1 stay.—See page 29.

A RELIC OF THE DISTANT PAST.

This old mosaic floor was unearthed by the Australian troops in digging trenches in Egypt. It is supposed to have been built by the Greeks 1600 years ago, and is said to probably cover the tomb of George —the original of Saint George, the patron saint of England.
